IBBESS engages today’s students to become tomorrow’s experts in the bioeconomy!

The International BioBased Economy Student SymbioSUM (IBBESS) is founded and run by students at Wageningen University and aims to create a platform to connect students, companies and academia towards a biobased economy. It is our vision to catalyze growth in the biobased economy by inviting young and innovative students to join for the SymbioSUM. This is a unique combination of a one-day Conference and a two-days Thinktank with real life business challenges. Students will develop consultancy skills, expand their network and find inspiration.
